

Irish Times features Article "Child's Play" 23rd September 2009.

"Face-painting is thankfully off the agenda due to swine flu"

Following to-day's article we contacted our doctors and the Irish times. At the end of this page is the response from the Irish Times when we asked them to provide the substantiation to the point 2 of the Party Points of the article. . . .

Our doctors have advised us that it is most unlikely that face painting or any other interaction with children will increase the risk of swine flu. We are taking the matter up with the HSE and the Irish Times.

From: "Shane Hegarty" <shegarty@irishtimes.com>
Sent: Wed, 23 Sep 2009 13:45:24 +0100
To: ian@kaboom.ie
Received: 23-Sep-2009 13:45:24 +0100
Subject:

Ian,

The piece was a light guide to the etiquette of modern children's parties, and as such was based on the writer's observations and advice.

Regards,

Shane Hegarty

Asst Features Editor

The Irish Times